Coffee break and Network Activities

17:00 – 18:30 Round table and open-debate: why very young entrepreneurs and social networks are changing the global markets?

Topics: the focus of the Round Table will be on the market power of innovative firms created by very young entrepreneurs: how can young people (such as students) break the rules of the market by defeating more traditional competitors with innovative ideas and new IT-based marketing tools? What is the real market power of student entrepreneurship? How can higher education best stimulate the creation of firms emanating from young and smart minds in colleges and universities? How are brain circulation and social networking helping young people to disseminate their ideas worldwide? How can young people conceive, develop and exchange entrepreneurial ideas at the maximum speed and with the highest financial return? Why are more and more young people deciding to become entrepreneurs? Can the student corporation (that is, a firm entirely composed of young students) always be regarded as a kind of ‘knowledge-intensive factory’?
